

Disclaimers

---

General

TammyDunnett.com, the affiliated blog and email series, and affiliated products (including, but not limited to, ebooks, coaching packages and courses hosted at CommunicationCrossroads.com, NurseMinder.com) are educational and informational resources. They are not substitutes for working with a business consultant or other professional. The Owner cannot guarantee the outcome of following the recommendations provided and any statements made regarding the potential outcome are expressions of opinion only. The Owner makes no guarantees about the information and recommendations provided herein. By continuing to use, read, watch, and participate in TammyDunnett.com and the associated blog, email series and Products, you acknowledge that The Owner cannot guarantee any particular results, as such outcomes are based on subjective factors that are not within her control. Therefore, following any information or recommendations provided on TammyDunnett.com, its affiliated blog, email series and Products are at your own risk.

Product Descriptions

The Owner aims to describe and display her Products as accurately as possible. However, she cannot guarantee that the features of each Product will be completely accurate. Likewise, The Owner cannot guarantee their uses for your particular circumstances and purposes. Please do not accept that the Product descriptions contained on TammyDunnett.com and Sites are entirely accurate, current, or error-free. Occasionally, The Owner may correct errors in pricing and merchandise descriptions.

Affiliate Links

Some of the links contained on or within TammyDunnett.com, the affiliated blog, email series and affiliated Products are affiliate links. This means that she may receive a commission if you click on one of these affiliate links and make a purchase from the affiliate. The Owner only recommends products and services that she knows or trusts to be of high quality, whether an affiliate relationship is in place or not.